

OH, HOW THE RAIN IS POURING

Words and Music by Jocelyn Kotchie 2002

This song is for 3 groups of voices: Voice 1 being the highest, Voice 2 a little lower and Voice 3 the lowest.

Otherwise the difference between the parts is negligible .

In performance, it follows on naturally from 'Winter's Closing In', the tempo and initial key being similar, however the song is generally more difficult.

In Part 1, the first voice divides into 2 parts

Part 2 should be sung be sung with a free, slightly syncopated rhythm as for 'Winter's Closing In'

Part 1

$\text{♩} = \text{c. } 68$

Voice 1
Rain is fall - ing down      Rain is fall - ing

Voice 2
Rain is fall - ing down      Hea - vy on the ground

Voice 3
Rain is fall - ing down      Hea - vy on the ground

5

down      Rain is fall - ing down, down, down

Dark clouds all a - round      down, down, down

Dark clouds all a - round      down, down, down

2

Part 2

9

Oh, how the rain is pour-ing down      Oh, how the rain is pour-ing

Oh, how the rain is pour-ing down      Oh, how the rain is pour-ing

Oh, how the rain is pour-ing down

12

down      Here in my safe and co-sy room, wrapped in-side a soft co down      Here in-side my room, in-side my

Close and hea-vy all a-round, in my co-zy room, in a soft co-

15

coon the world could drown      Oh, how the rain is pour-ing room, the world out-side could slow-ly drown      Oh, how the rain's pour-ing

coon, the world out-side could drown and I would ne-ver know